

Compulsive Gambling Counselor Certification

An individual applying for certification as a compulsive gambling counselor (CCGC) must:

- Satisfactorily complete a 60-hour Compulsive Gambling Counseling Training Program sponsored or approved by the Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse, Missouri Department of Mental Health;
- Provide a current resume; and
- Possess and maintain at least one of the following counseling credentials:
 - Certification as a Substance Abuse Counselor (CADC, CRADC, CRAADC); Certified Criminal Justice Addictions Professional (CCJP); and/or Co-Occurring Disorders Professional (CCDP) issued by the Missouri Substance Abuse Professional Credentialing Board; or
 - License to practice Clinical Social Work, Clinical Psychology, Marriage and Family Therapy, Psychiatry, or Professional Counseling, issued by the Missouri Division of Professional Registration.

The code of ethics applicable to the counselor's prior credential shall apply to the practice of counseling compulsive gamblers and/or their family members. Any sanctions arising from ethics violations shall be deemed as applying equally to the CGC credential.

Applicants who meet all requirements for certification shall be issued a Compulsive Gambling Counselor credential which certifies the professional for a period of up to two years. The credential will coincide with the applicant's renewal of their qualifying credential. The credential shall be effective only as long as the counselor maintains the prior credential and has no sanctions arising from a code of ethics' violation, as described in No. 1 above.

If an individual has successfully completed the 60-hour training but has not been certified in Missouri because the prior credential has not been acquired, he/she may still qualify for certification as follows:

- The prior credential must be granted within two (2) years of the completion of the initial training. A provisional license does not qualify an applicant for certification.
- If the individual requires the full two years to obtain the qualifying credential, he/she must also meet the fourteen (14) hour continuing education requirement. The continuing education may be prorated if the qualifying credential is granted in less than two years.

The counselor must reapply for the CGC certification every two years. Requirements for renewal are as follows:

- The counselor must have received during the past two (2) years at least fourteen (14) hours of training sponsored or approved by the Division.
- The fourteen (14) hours must be directly related to the treatment of compulsive gambling.
- The fourteen (14) hours shall foster development of clinical skills and knowledge at a level beyond that required for initial certification. This level of training will be referred to as "advanced training."
