BACKGROUND

- National Children’s Mental Health Awareness Week is dedicated to increasing public awareness about the triumphs and challenges in children's mental health and emphasizing the importance of family and youth involvement in the children’s mental health movement.

- The effort seeks to raise awareness about the importance of children's mental health and that positive mental health is essential to a child's healthy development from birth through childhood. Last year, the national theme focused on building resilience in young children dealing with trauma.

- Communities around the country participated by holding their own awareness day events, focusing either on the national theme, or adapting the theme to the populations they serve.

- All communities, statewide organizations and other interested organizations are encouraged to use the week of May 6-12, 2018 to promote positive mental health, well-being and social development for all children and youth.

- Join colleagues across the country in sending out the following messages:
  - Mental health is essential to overall health and well being.
  - Serious emotional and mental health disorders in children and youth are real and treatable.
  - Children and youth with mental health challenges and their families deserve access to services and supports that are family driven, youth guided and culturally appropriate.
  - Values of acceptance, dignity and social inclusion should be promoted throughout all communities for children, youth and families.

- Family and youth voice is a valued asset in determining appropriate services and interventions.

HISTORY & TIMELINE

- In 1949, The National Mental Health Association declared May as Mental Health Month. Although this nationally recognized observance began as Mental Health Week, with an increase in public interest and a broadening scope of issues, it grew into a month-long awareness campaign. There was no focus on Children’s Mental Health until the early 1990’s.

- In 1950s-60’s. Through the next two decades, special emphasis was placed on educating the public around mental illness and inviting them to state hospitals and other locations to learn more.

- In 1970s. In the 1970s observances shifted to community based events as state hospital “patients” were moved to community settings.

- In 1991, a group of parents in Missouri decided that one of the most important projects they could undertake was to raise awareness and reduce the stigma surrounding children’s mental health. A coalition of parents, professionals and other stakeholders was formed and created Children’s Mental Health and Behavior Disorder Week. This was changed to Children’s Mental Health Week in 1995. Over the next five years three more states, Kansas, Illinois and Ohio began their own celebration of Children’s Mental Health Week (CMHW).

- In 1994, the MO Family Organization took posters and copies of a tool kit for all states attending the FFCMH conference. The green ribbon was used in all CMHW materials. The National Federation of Families for Children’s Mental Health later joined the coalition and promoted the mission.
• In 1996, CMHW went nationwide.

• In 1998 & 1999, CMHW in the Congressional Record signed by Missouri Senator John Ashcroft.

• In 2004, the National Federation of Families for Children’s Mental Health declared the first full week of May as Children’s Mental Health Awareness Week nationally. National Federation partners and all 120 Federation chapters and state organizations were invited and encouraged to participate in a week long celebration of advocacy and awareness efforts.

• In 2006, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration’s (SAMHSA) Center for Mental Health Services launched an annual national initiative called “National Children’s Mental Health Awareness Day,” which occurs during Children’s Mental Health Awareness Week.

• In 2007, the National Federation of Families for Children’s Mental Health launched the Annual Green Ribbon Campaign, one of the their most important awareness and education campaigns. The green ribbon is a key symbol in social marketing and awareness efforts.

• Today, the goal of this nationally recognized event is to increase public awareness and educate communities to expand the understanding of children’s mental health needs and their resulting impact on families.

WHY GREEN?

• Back in the 1800’s the pale green color was used to brand the insane population.
  • It was decided to continue using the color green in a bright hue, but with a completely different focus. Green signifies new life, new growth, and new beginnings.

• Display a Green Ribbon in a prominent place to show your support for Children’s Mental Health Week 2018.

TEN TIPS FOR ORGANIZING AN EFFECTIVE AWARENESS CAMPAIGN

• Gather a group of enthusiastic people to make your team. Include people who have shown dedication to the issue of children’s mental health, as well as people with lots of contacts and energy.

• Schedule regular meetings and set goals early.

• Determine what your message will be and to whom you will be sending the message; suggestion: everyone on your mailing list, local schools, county departments, community centers, hospitals, and pediatricians.

• Brainstorm your ideas - ask the “Magic Wand Question” (What would you like to see happening if you had a magic wand and no obstacles?) No ideas are bad ideas.

• Prioritize - as a group. Set goals and then discuss what steps (objectives) you need to take to accomplish those goals.

• Become task-centered - break down the objectives and decide if an individual can manage it or if a team approach is needed. Then, assign the tasks.

• Create a timeline and if you have e-mail abilities set up a distribution list to keep everyone updated on the progress.

• Spread the word – send a press release or call members of the media (TV and newspaper reporters and editors).

• Support each other by keeping in touch with participants. Encourage them to stay on target with the timeline. If someone is having trouble with a task, offer help.

• Participate in your Children’s Mental Health Week activity, and celebrate it at a follow up meeting. Discuss how things went and what to improve on next year. Do not forget to set the date for your next planning meeting to begin the process for next year. Each year it gets easier!
Suggested Activities

Structured Educational Activities:
• Workshops for your agency or other providers.
• Regional or local educational conferences.
• Mental Health Fairs on site with information and resource dissemination.
• Video presentations with discussion for in-service.

Informational Activities:
• Green ribbon awareness—word of mouth is key!
• Organization or support program open house.
• Public Service Announcements (PSAs) or Press Release about CMHW activity you sponsor.
• Brown bag lunch series on various learning disabilities, mental health diagnoses, community services, medication education, etc.
• Highlight the importance of mental and physical health by organizing youth from your site to spend a day reading to children in a local hospital.
• Sponsor a Youth Mental Health First Aid training

Artistic Expression/Recreational Activities with a Children’s Mental Health Theme
• Essay and poster contests for children & youth in your programs.
• Family concert.
• Sponsor a family night and include “Express Yourself Tees”—t-shirts created by children/teens.
• Sponsor an open mike poetry session for teens and/or parents and staff.
• Teen improvisational or theatre group show, if you have teen programs.
• “Be A Mentor Day” or “Be A Buddy Day”… encourage the internal assets of caring and helping individuals with disabilities through this activity.

Tips and Ideas—Funding Your Children’s Mental Health Week Activities
• Below you will find some ideas of ways to help raise money and/or get support to have a successful Children’s Mental Health Week 2019 event.
• When you approach groups, businesses, etc in your community, you are raising awareness for Children’s Mental Health just by having the conversation about why you would like them to support these activities.
• Keep a list of everyone who donates so you can send a thank you card. Use that list to show others in the community who supported your awareness activities.
• The timing is perfect (after March 17) to approach stores in your community to see if they would be willing to donate left over St. Patrick’s Day decorations. Stores in your community that might have items to donate are Deals, Dollar Tree, Big Lots, Party supply stores etc.
• GREEN RIBBONS are a cheap way start conversations and bring awareness to the community about Children’s Mental Health. If funding is an issue, think about a community resource. Do you have a Michael’s, Hobby Lobby, craft/fabric store that you could ask to donate a few roles of green ribbon and pins?
• Get everyone involved! Ask children, youth, and family members in your community, agency, or organization to help make green ribbons to distribute during CMHW 2019.
• Are there groups of youth and young adults in community activities that might be willing to help with the ribbon project? Try reaching out to youth groups connected with faith-based and/or civic organizations. A civic organization example would be Chamber of Commerce groups such as Young Professionals.
• Traditional fundraisers work just as well! Bake sales, donating a parking space, etc.
• Give all donors a green ribbon on a card explaining CMHW or some marker to get people asking questions.

  BE CREATIVE!

• Funds raised can also be used for an event and bring family members, youth and children together to celebrate CMHW. Watch the System of Care website for idea’s on ways to celebrate with families.
