Definitions

1. Evaluation/Assessment Services

1.1 General Description

Assessment services include screening and evaluation activities that provide information about an individual's functioning, strengths and needs, related to a developmental disability.

Services are typically provided in a setting other than the individual's own home, but rarely on an inpatient basis. The assessment services are intended to meet initial and annual data requirements related to service prescription as opposed to eligibility determination needs.

1.2 Service Guidelines:

Assessment services may be purchased for individuals of the Division of Developmental Disabilities. Assessment services may also be purchased if a highly specialized medical evaluation or developmentally related diagnostic evaluation is required for eligibility determination.

Reimbursement for assessment services will not be made for the following:

- any evaluation service not related to an individual's developmental disability;
- services which do not include a review of prior evaluations and screenings (a thorough records review must be reflected in assessment reports);
- evaluations not adapted to the cultural, ethnic, linguistic and communication background of the individual and family;
- evaluations not prescribed by the individual's habilitation/service plan as a service objective or as a requirement for initial IHP development;
- educationally related evaluations. The need for an educational evaluation is determined by a regional Office for those individuals determined to be dangerous to self and others;
- initial psychiatric evaluation. The Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services will purchase or provide initial evaluations to determine primary diagnosis or existence of a mental disorder; does not include ongoing assessment or service.
