Funding Opportunity for Innovative Self-Advocacy Project

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council (MODDC) has approved $20,000 to fund a 12-month self-advocacy project for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD). The goal is to support innovative approaches to self-advocacy in Missouri. These approaches will help remove barriers for people with I/DD.

MODDC invites innovative proposals that engage:

- New voices in the self-advocacy movement in Missouri
- Grassroot efforts to reach marginalized groups of people with I/DD including geographically diverse populations
- Youth of transition age (age 14-24)

Projects can be targeted in nature, focusing on singular issues like voting, guardianship, housing, or others. Or, they can be broad in nature providing education on multiple topics related to self-advocacy.
