Participation in the DD Health Home program will be optional. Individuals who qualify for the program will choose if they want to enroll. Participating in the DD Health Home will not affect an individual's current MO HealthNet (Medicaid) benefits or services. Individuals who participate in a DD Health Home will have access to a team of healthcare professionals that will help identify healthcare needs, develop lifetime health goals, and help promote healthy lifestyle choices and wellness.

When traveling, be sure you stay weather aware. Summer travel can include being in areas where temperatures are excessive. Make sure you plan in advance, even for short trips, before leaving home.

Be sure to stay hydrated (travel with drinking water) and dress in lightweight, breathable, light colored clothing. Stay indoors, when possible, and know where cooling centers are located in your area. Consider traveling in early morning or evening hours when temperatures are the coolest. Reduce physical activity during excessive temperatures, wear sunscreen, and watch weather

FHIR-ed Up for Interoperability

The Division of DD is excited to announce that it is partnering with three Missouri Health Information Networks (HINs): Lewis & Clark Health Information Exchange, Tiger Institute, and Velatura HIE.

These partnerships mark the beginning of an exciting initiative aimed at implementing a cutting-edge technology interface solution that will enable social and health care providers to better serve individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD). The project's objective is to facilitate the rapid and efficient electronic exchange of person-centered care plan data, ensuring seamless collaboration and improved care outcomes.

The project's official kick-off occurred on June 1st, with 28 participants representing eight different organizations or offices. As part of the initial phase, the HINs will be responsible for ensuring appropriate legal and data-sharing agreements are in place and a signed attestation document.

Division of DD will take the lead in project planning and conducting meetings to gather technical requirements with the participating HINs. In addition, the HINs will be required to seek feedback from clinical and HCBS providers to help ensure the solution meets the specific needs and preferences of the users. This collaborative effort aims to maximize the efficiency and effectiveness of the implemented solution.

Division of DD is also partnering with the Office of Administration Information Technology Services Division (OA-ITSD) to solicit a Project Assessment Quotation (PAQ) for a technology vendor to support this work. The chosen vendor will assist DMH-DD, OA-ITSD, and participating HINs in planning, developing, testing, and implementing Fast Healthcare Interoperability Resources (FHIR®) 4 Application Programming Interface (API) for exchanging standards-based care plan data.
