Are you creative? Do you like to make things? Are you a person with a disability interested in selling the things you make?

Introducing Trove Market. Trove is a brand-new on-line eCommerce marketplace, similar to popular sites like Etsy and eBay, where people can sell their products. However, Trove Market is a little different. Trove is a first of its kind platform specifically developed to support entrepreneurs with disabilities and provide a space for people to showcase their talents where they can turn their creativity into a living. Trove charges sellers only a 3% fee, which is significantly less than other popular platforms. This means more of the profit goes to the individual seller.

Trove aims to help reduce unemployment for people with disabilities, help foster financial success and promote change and inclusion. Explore Trove Market where you can find additional information about selling products, becoming a partner, and purchasing items listed for sell.

If you have heard of Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) accounts but are still unsure what it all means or how an ABLE account works, the Missouri State Treasurer's Office offers a variety of resources for you to explore. Explore the MOABLE site for additional details about eligibility, what benefits exist, how accounts are managed, and what the money in an account can be used for. Answers to common questions can be found on the FAQs page. Additional support for answers is available on the MOABLE's website through the help chat or by calling 1-800-439-1653.

DMH's Hearnese Acute Rehabilitation Program (HARP) has been selected as a finalist for the Institute for Inpatient Psychiatric Rehabilitation Award!

We need your vote by December 19, 2025 to win the award. Please vote at: IIPR Award Voting Site. Why you should vote for HARP: HARP serves individuals who are dually diagnosed with serious mental illness and intellectual/developmental disabilities and who are in need of psychiatric medication stabilization. This is a 15-bed program at Fulton State Hospital. HARP's goal is to achieve psychiatric rehabilitation within a 90-day stay. HARP utilizes Tools of Choice, Dialectical Behavior Therapy, Behavioral Skills Training, Case Management, and Peer Support to meet individuals on their recovery journey and build upon their strengths. HARP involves the individual in setting goals and developing a treatment plan that addresses the individual's needs and desires. HARP works closely with guardians, family members, support coordinators, and providers to strengthen care and positive community connections when individuals leave HARP. HARP fosters hope by believing that all individuals have the capacity to succeed.

2025-2026 National Core Indicators and Missouri Quality Outcomes Surveys: Your Feedback is Important!

The MO Division of Developmental Disabilities (DDD) has begun a new survey cycle. DDD participates in three National Core Indicators (NCI) surveys and the Missouri Quality Outcomes Survey. These surveys ask people with intellectual and/or developmental disabilities and their families about their lives and the services they receive.

People receiving DDD services are randomly selected to participate. People selected will be contacted by mail or telephone. Mailed surveys will come from the University of Missouri, Kansas City, Institute for Human Development, later in the year. Telephone contact will be made by staff from the local Regional Office starting in November 2025.

Survey responses are anonymous. DDD reviews and uses the surveys to guide decisions about programs and enhance services. The 2025-2026 survey cycle ends on June 30, 2026. Please explore DDD's Easy Reader Surveys and You: Your Voice Matters. Any questions about the surveys can be sent to Caitlin Bartley, NCI Project Coordinator. caitlin.bartley@dmh.mo.gov.

What is ConneXion?

ConneXion is a secure online system that helps providers, support coordinators, and teams share and access important information about individuals receiving Developmental Disabilities (DD) services.

Goal for ConneXion:

To create a simple, secure system that helps people who support individuals with developmental disabilities share important information—so everyone can work together to provide the best care and services.

What's Happening:

We're planning for the future of ConneXion! Right now, our team is writing a detailed plan—kind of like a shopping list—that explains what we need in a new system to better support individuals and meet state rules.

We hope to share this plan with technology companies in January 2026, so they can show us how they would build it.

What is FHIR?

FHIR (Fast Healthcare Interoperability Resources) is a national standard that helps different computer systems safely share health and support information.

Goal for FHIR:

To make it easier for health care providers, support teams, and service systems to securely share important information, so individuals with developmental disabilities receive better, more connected care.

What's Happening:

Our team is building tools that help different computer systems “talk” to each other using FHIR. This makes it easier for doctors, providers, and support coordinators to share important information—like medical history or support plans.

We are working to share person-centered service plan data in real time through the Health Information Network (HIN) viewer. This will help teams quickly see the most up-to-date information for individuals receiving DD services.

We’re aiming to have this ready to go live between January and February 2026.
